Bombshelter Press, United States, 2004. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 231 x 142 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Zahava Sweet was born in Poland and survived the Holocaust. After the war she lived in Israel and later emigrated to America. She has been writing since childhood. Her poetry was selected by the Bumbershoot Literary Festival for performance and publication. This collection of poems is a reflection on her life. She lives in Monrovia, California. The themes in The Return of Sound are: poems derived from experiences during World War II, poems about family, nature poems, and, poems derived from dreams. The poet heeds the voices of elemental things while also understanding the power of authorial restraint and silence. Out of tatters and fragments of memory, in poems spare and wraith-thin, with lines taut and urgent, Sweet recovers her history of terror and makes for herself, and her readers, a new coat out of song. --Jeanne Marie Beaumont.
