By William Ellery Leonard

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Glory of the Morning (An Autumn afternoon long ago.) (To the left a wigwam. A disused cradle-board. A water jar. A wooden mortar and pestle. A little to the rear and to the right, two sticks with upright forks supporting a cross-bar, from which hangs a copper kettle. To the farthest right a canoe with paddles, drawn up from the shore of the inland lake beyond. An oak tree, with its fallen leaves of red and brown strewn about. One or two boulders. Farther to the rear away from the lake-side, glimpses of the rest of the Indian village. After a moment Glory Of The Morning, a comely Indian woman of thirty, emerging from the wigwam, looks expectantly out over the water, and then, seating herself on the ground, continues sewing beads on a buckskin shirt, with a glance now and then far away. After another moment or two, Red Wing, her twelve year old boy, comes running in from behind the wigwam, with bow and quiver and a quarry of squirrels.) About the Publisher...

This publication will never be straightforward to get going on looking at but really fun to see. This can be for all those who stante that there had not been a worth looking at. You wont really feel monotony at at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you request me).
